VWR International CURRENT SUPPLIER FROM THE PRIOR CONTRACT and has improved their discounts significantly on many brands.

REMOVAL & DISPOSAL: Product Stewardship and Take-Back Programs - VWR has developed an innovative pipet tip box recycling program in conjunction with TerraCycle. From the Lab Bench to the Park Bench program allows customers to collect pipet tip boxes and recycle them into park benches and other eco-friendly products. To date, VWR customers have recycled more than 264,000 tip boxes which, prior to this program, would have ended up in the landfill. In November 2014, VWR launched its garment recycling solution to help customers recycle used, disposable garments. With a focus on clean rooms to eliminate risk of contamination, the Gown Up, Give Back program can help meet internal sustainability goals around landfill diversion and reduced environmental impacts. A portion of sales from this program is also donated to the VWR Foundation, which means you could also be helping to support non-profits that promote innovative research, improved health and well-being, and greater awareness and improvement in science education. VWR facilitates certain programs with their suppliers to recycle or trade-in products at the end-of-life. These programs are run in conjunction with their suppliers. For example, Eppendorf North America offers trade-in programs of both pipettors and microcentrifuges. Parts are recycled if appropriate; the unit is disposed of properly; or if still functional, is donated to a local high school.

In order to obtain the credit and return the old equipment, please work with a Waters sales representative. Alert Scientific Inc SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS

PREVAILING WAGE RATES:

Assembly and installation may be required as part of the pricing and sale criteria which in turn may require the use of Prevailing Wage Rates when dealing with a Public Entity Customer / MHEC Member. Awarded contractors must follow prevailing wage guidelines for all public member entities. Prior to any installation, the contractor and the customer must determine whether a portion or entire service requested is a prevailing wage installation. If any portion of the installation is determined as prevailing wage, the contractor must follow the prevailing wage requirements detailed in "Massachusetts Prevailing Wage Law, G.L. c. 149, §§26-27D" and request an updated Prevailing Wage Rate schedule from the MHEC member and/or designee. A successful installation is achieved when the product, equipment or system is fully functional according to its design and when the purchaser has acknowledge final acceptance by providing a sign-off or as agreed upon by the contractor and purchaser in writing prior to purchase of the product, equipment or system.

QUARTERLY REPORTING

All purchases and services made by MHEC members and by non-members when the MHEC contract pricing is offered must be reported quarterly as agreed. This includes but is not limited to the sales of goods and services to subcontractors, or by dealers for the use of member organizations. All contractors are the responsible party on reporting any volume. Any reference to the MHEC in member's orders, purchase orders, account set up shall be deemed as volume and reported as such. The specific contract number does not need to be reflected. MHEC is sufficient. Reportable spend includes any promotions, special deals, volume discounts and pricing offered. Bruker Optics SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS

PREVAILING WAGE RATES:

Assembly and installation may be required as part of the pricing and sale criteria which in turn may require the use of Prevailing Wage Rates when dealing with a Public Entity Customer / MHEC Member. Awarded contractors must follow prevailing wage guidelines for all public member entities. Prior to any installation, the contractor and the customer must determine whether a portion or entire service requested is a prevailing wage installation. If any portion of the installation is determined as prevailing wage, the contractor must follow the prevailing wage requirements detailed in "Massachusetts Prevailing Wage Law, G.L. c. 149, §§26-27D" and request an updated Prevailing Wage Rate schedule from the MHEC member and/or designee. A successful installation is achieved when the product, equipment or system is fully functional according to its design and when the purchaser has acknowledge final acceptance by providing a sign-off or as agreed upon by the contractor and purchaser in writing prior to purchase of the product, equipment or system.

QUARTERLY REPORTING

All purchases and services made by MHEC members and by non-members when the MHEC contract pricing is offered must be reported quarterly as agreed. This includes but is not limited to the sales of goods and services to subcontractors, or by dealers for the use of member organizations. All contractors are the responsible party on reporting any volume. Any reference to the MHEC in member's orders, purchase orders, account set up shall be deemed as volume and reported as such. The specific contract number does not need to be reflected. MHEC is sufficient. Reportable spend includes any promotions, special deals, volume discounts and pricing offered. PREVAILING WAGE RATES:

Assembly and installation may be required as part of the pricing and sale criteria which in turn may require the use of Prevailing Wage Rates when dealing with a Public Entity Customer / MHEC Member. Awarded contractors must follow prevailing wage guidelines for all public member entities. Prior to any installation, the contractor and the customer must determine whether a portion or entire service requested is a prevailing wage installation. If any portion of the installation is determined as prevailing wage, the contractor must follow the prevailing wage requirements detailed in "Massachusetts Prevailing Wage Law, G.L. c. 149, §§26-27D" and request an updated Prevailing Wage Rate schedule from the MHEC member and/or designee. A successful installation is achieved when the product, equipment or system is fully functional according to its design and when the purchaser has acknowledge final acceptance by providing a sign-off or as agreed upon by the contractor and purchaser in writing prior to purchase of the product, equipment or system.

Assembly and installation may be required as part of the pricing and sale criteria which in turn may require the use of Prevailing Wage Rates when dealing with a Public Entity Customer / MHEC Member. Awarded contractors must follow prevailing wage guidelines for all public member entities. A successful installation is achieved when the product, equipment or system is fully functional according to its design and when the purchaser has acknowledge final acceptance by providing a sign-off or as agreed upon by the contractor and purchaser in writing prior to purchase of the product, equipment or system.

Shimadzu Scientific Inst SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONSPREVAILING WAGE RATES:

Assembly and installation may be required as part of the pricing and sale criteria which in turn may require the use of Prevailing Wage Rates when dealing with a Public Entity Customer / MHEC Member. Awarded contractors must follow prevailing wage guidelines for all public member entities. Prior to any installation, the contractor and the customer must determine whether a portion or entire service requested is a prevailing wage installation. If any portion of the installation is determined as prevailing wage, the contractor must follow the prevailing wage requirements detailed in "Massachusetts Prevailing Wage Law, G.L. c. 149, §§26-27D" and request an updated Prevailing Wage Rate schedule from the MHEC member and/or designee. A successful installation is achieved when the product, equipment or system is fully functional according to its design and when the purchaser has acknowledge final acceptance by providing a sign-off or as agreed upon by the contractor and purchaser in writing prior to purchase of the product, equipment or system.

QUARTERLY REPORTING

All purchases and services made by MHEC members and by non-members when the MHEC contract pricing is offered must be reported quarterly as agreed. This includes but is not limited to the sales of goods and services to subcontractors, or by dealers for the use of member organizations. All contractors are the responsible party on reporting any volume. Any reference to the MHEC in member's orders, purchase orders, account set up shall be deemed as volume and reported as such. The specific contract number does not need to be reflected. MHEC is sufficient. Reportable spend includes any promotions, special deals, volume discounts and pricing offered. VWR International SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS

PREVAILING WAGE RATES:

Assembly and installation may be required as part of the pricing and sale criteria which in turn may require the use of Prevailing Wage Rates when dealing with a Public Entity Customer / MHEC Member. Awarded contractors must follow prevailing wage guidelines for all public member entities. Prior to any installation, the contractor and the customer must determine whether a portion or entire service requested is a prevailing wage installation. If any portion of the installation is determined as prevailing wage, the contractor must follow the prevailing wage requirements detailed in "Massachusetts Prevailing Wage Law, G.L. c. 149, §§26-27D" and request an updated Prevailing Wage Rate schedule from the MHEC member and/or designee. A successful installation is achieved when the product, equipment or system is fully functional according to its design and when the purchaser has acknowledge final acceptance by providing a sign-off or as agreed upon by the contractor and purchaser in writing prior to purchase of the product, equipment or system.

QUARTERLY REPORTING

All purchases and services made by MHEC members and by non-members when the MHEC contract pricing is offered must be reported quarterly as agreed. This includes but is not limited to the sales of goods and services to subcontractors, or by dealers for the use of member organizations. All contractors are the responsible party on reporting any volume. Any reference to the MHEC in member's orders, purchase orders, account set up shall be deemed as volume and reported as such. The specific contract number does not need to be reflected. MHEC is sufficient. Reportable spend includes any promotions, special deals, volume discounts and pricing offered. Additional details on reporting can be found at the MHEC web site: <http://www.mhec.net/traininghelp/>
